

Who We Are

Based in the state of Maryland, Nicole Germain has more than 11-years of experience in public relations, event planning and marketing communications receiving her master's in the field from American University. Germain possesses extensive skills that span a broad range of public relations and marketing communications capacities. Germain delivers strategic planning and consulting, message development for media relations and marketing collateral as well as effective management of projects, including special events.

Prior to forming MJG Communications, Germain led the internal and external communications efforts for organizations. Managing diverse issues which ranged from marketing to public relations to membership relations, Germain took strategic communications to a new level. Her involvement in executing marketing campaigns helped substantially increase revenue and build membership for several companies.
